

Earth has nothing I desire besides you. (Psalm 73:25, NIV)

Hunger for God

How can religious people live satisfied without the practice of God's presence? Can we ever be satisfied without giving ourselves entirely to God, without turning our daily lives toward Him?

We grasp so much for material and worldly goods and receive so little satisfaction from them. Yet we are satisfied with so little of God. God has infinite treasure to give, and we seem contented with only passing moments of inner joy. If we would open ourselves entirely to Him in faith and love, He would flood our souls with His graces.

Let us make this our only concern: to please God. Everything else is a vain waste of time. Wholeheartedly give up all that is not of Him.
