

Our King

David had been the most powerful,
most commanding,
most “successful” king Israel had ever had.
And the Messiah was promised to be a greater heir to David’s glorious throne.

But Jesus arrived as the seemingly-illegitimate son of peasants, with a filthy stable for a nursery and a feeding trough His only cradle.
He entered this world sharing
the misery,
the poverty,
the shame, and
the oppression of His people.

Maybe that’s how a king should come.

His riches would be the Spirit of Almighty God.
His power would be the unrestrainable love of our Father Creator.
His most sweeping victory would be His death, and His greatest gift to His people would be Himself.

He has come!
Receive Him now,
the King of all Kings and
the Lord of all Lords!
