

People of God

So you sing well...or teach well...or are good with children. Your abilities are helpful to the Church. They are good tools, and you know how to use them.

If you were having a house built, would it be enough that the contractor had good tools and knew how to use them?

Or would you also want a builder with dedication to the task, who put you first, not some selfish agenda? A person with attention to detail, who didn't cut corners, who was willing to put in the time and effort to make the job right. A person who approached the project with love and enthusiasm, not obligation.

God is building a temple, a holy people. He is looking for fellow workers - workers with the heart of a servant, dedicated to His agenda. Workers with attention to detail, willing to put in the time and effort to do the job right, no matter what. Workers who approach His task with love and enthusiasm.

Remember, in God's service each song is more than a song. Each detail is a part of His plan of salvation. His desire is to save every lost and dying person, and He is calling us to be His fellow workers (1 Corinthians 3:9). He is calling us to be His people.
