

You Are the Blessing

Read Exodus 34:5-7; Psalm 86:15; John 1:14, 17
A Prayer

Father, how You long to bless Your people with all Your best!
And You Yourself are the gift You most long to give.
You are the prosperity that You pour into our souls.
You are the peace, the harmony, the completeness, the well-being with which You would fill us and our world.
Your own Spirit is the blessing that You would breathe and speak and sing
throughout all we are
into every corner of the universe.

Father, in You, we are cradled in Your unfailing love and
absolute dependability.
You are unfailing love.
You are absolute dependability.

In You we possess all things.
In You we possess all the riches of reality
rather than this world's passing illusions.
You are All-in-all,
the Source,
the Goal, and
the Giver.

Whom do we have in heaven but You?
And on earth, what could we ever need but You?
In life,
in death,
in all the world,
in all eternity,
there is nothing we could want but
the blessing You will soon give in all its fullness:
Yourself.