

You Come

God, so eager to give,
You came to us.
You gave Yourself completely,
 birth to death.
You became like us,
 weak,
 humble,
 suffering,
 dying,
so that we might become like You.

Holy God,
 breath of love,
 unbounded Spirit,
You come to us.
As we trust You,
 though imperfectly,
You give Yourself to us.
You live and breathe as Christ in us,
 eagerly sharing Yourself with us.

God of unfailing promises,
You will come to us again.
At the perfect moment You will come
 as a bridegroom comes,
 eager to sweep away His bride on their long-awaited day.
All the universe will celebrate with us.

You came once,
 in love.
Come again, Lord Jesus.
We are waiting.
