

Your Mighty and Tender Word

Hebrews 4:12-16; Jeremiah 23:29; Matthew 11:28-30

Father, Your Word is not empty wishes or pretty theory,
long past and
long dead,
now only a distant echo.

Your Word is living and active,
as almighty as its Speaker.

You speak, and it is so.

Your will becomes eternal reality.

Your Word is a hammer that shatters the hardest rock...and breaks the hardest heart.

Your Word is an unquenchable fire that consumes all that stands in its way.

Your Word is
powerful,
penetrating, and precise.

Though universally true, it also cuts through to every thought and every motive hidden within every individual.

But Your Word is also tender,
warm, and inviting.

It whispers, "Come to Me, all you who are weary, and I will give you rest."
