

Lament for Sin

In the Garden of Eden, we lived in the home our loving Father had created for us, a home of beauty,
    abundance,
    peace, and
    His immediate personal presence.
We walked with Him there, and He lavishly supplied our every need.

But we mistrusted Him and broke with Him, the Source of all good.
Together and individually, universally and personally, we are suffering the inevitable result of our separation from Him:
    death,
    pain,
    isolation,
    shame,
    fear,
    foolish pride, and
    endless expressions of brokenness.

See this variety of brokenness in the individuals Jesus encountered:
    the leper,
    the woman at the well,
    the paralytic,
    Nicodemus,
    the woman with the hemorrhage, Jairus' daughter.
Watch what He did, and rejoice as the Kingdom of God comes to us and begins to remove all the root and fruit of sin from our hearts,
        from our lives, and
        from all creation.
