

How to Celebrate Christmas

We have so much to celebrate at Christmas. But beyond the lavish programs, elaborate decorations, and unending social gatherings, how much do you celebrate in your heart? How much do you rejoice over the wonderful, unending gifts God gave us at Christmas? Do you sincerely thank Him, heart to heart, for His goodness and tender, surprising love? Do you praise Him with all your body and soul in the company of His people?

Remember the song He has planted in your heart, a song you share with God's children all around the world.

Remember the star, the light from heaven by which He led you to Himself, by which you came to know and love and worship Him.

Most of all, remember that He has come to you. He came, not just to earth, but to you personally. He came in meekness, in gentleness, in tender love. He came in human flesh as a helpless child so that you could know Him and embrace Him.

This Christmas when God's children sing together, don't just move your mouth. Celebrate from your heart. Lift praise to Him with your entire being. You have a song! You have a star! You have a Savior!
